

Why is Conversational English so important for a House wife?

Conversation is quite different from just speaking in any language. You can keep on speaking without having a communication with the audience. Conversation is exchange of ideas in grammatically correct English, with correct pronunciation and proper voice modulation.

English conversation is very important in today's world not only for the professionals or students but also for the house wives. Any job vacancy for sure has a prerequisite –fluency in English as the important eligibility criteria. Let's try to understand why does a house wife need English conversational skills? In this modern world we find House wife who is in a real sense the HOME MAKER is the best example of multitasking. She shares so many responsibilities and helps her husband in running the house comfortably. List of activities done by her is endless; let's have few-

- Attends PTM in schools
- Takes appointment from the Doctors
- Calls for the electrician or plumber
- Visits departmental stores for daily needs
- Goes to the banks/Pays electricity bills
- Orders from the restaurants/medical stores/provision stores
- Makes enquiries from coaching classes for her children
- Helps her children with their studies/communicates with their friends
- Tries to cope up with the new trends in fashion and gadgets

All these activities she does happily, but if, for these activities she is comfortable conversing in English, it actually works as an added advantage for her and she definitely gets an edge over others. Let us be practical and accept the fact that she becomes more confident and people also start taking her seriously.

So all the SUPERWOMEN the real HOMEMAKERS understand your worth and feel proud of yourself. If you have any hesitation in conversing in English try to polish your skills and join ZENITH conversational English classes and be a winner all the way.....

Arti Bhatia

Counsellor and language trainer

(ZENITH Counselling and Conversational English Training Centre)

Contact-9892131357